SARBANES-OXLEY INTERNAL COMPLIANCE AND CONTROLS

- Track and manage requirements to ensure compliance
- Provide real-time reporting for key business activities
- Automate financial processes and monitor existing ERP environments
- Achieve a unified view of compliance tasks

Sarbanes-Oxley touches all areas of a business, requiring insurers to report on and manage all key business activities. In order to comply with tighter federal regulations and increased compliance oversight, insurers must consistently manage requirements across various legal, technical, and business lines. However, many insurers lack the business process management solutions required to achieve compliance with Sarbanes-Oxley across systems and practices on a global basis.

Insurers need a cohesive approach to support their compliance initiatives, including steps to obtain individual consent, subcontractor compliance, document management, reminders of audits, reporting, and beyond.
