

Life, pension, and annuity companies.

Appian helps insurers become digital first organizations.

Leading insurance organizations trust Appian's low-code platform to deliver operational agility and enable them to innovate at the speed of the customer.

A different approach to technology modernization

Life, pension, and annuity companies have unique technology challenges, beginning with the number of legacy policy administration systems, point systems, and databases they must use to support their organizations. Additionally, the range of products, combined with the diversity in scope of their product portfolio, further complicates matters. The bottom line is that traditional development methods do not allow them to respond fast enough to evolving business needs. But today, there is another option. Insurers can realize tangible, documentable ROI—faster, and at a lower cost—by leveraging the capabilities of their legacy system with a low-code application platform that enables them to quickly execute enhancement and change initiatives across the business.

Insurers need a transformation strategy that is agile, innovative and adaptable without comprising one attribute to have the other.

Deploy digital capabilities to streamline operations and increase efficiency

In today's competitive landscape, digital first operations are a priority for insurers. For maximum gain, this means empowering all stakeholders—including customers, agents, adjusters, and others—with a user experience that is data-centric and enables collaboration in both tasks and actions. A platform approach allows insurers to incrementally connect siloed processes while integrating emerging technologies—like robotic process automation (RPA) and artificial intelligence (AI)—resulting in a holistic view of data from across the organization, ultimately reducing operational expenses through increased accuracy and efficiency.

Drive profitable growth and deliver the highest level of customer service

Market and consumer demands will continue to evolve, and insurers need to respond at the same accelerated pace. There needs to be a laser focus on key areas that will enable them to elevate the customer experience, optimize processes, and exceed business goals. From new business quotes to policy issuance, pension administration and annuities, through billing and claims—all processes need to be digital—both inside and out.

“Because digital business transformation is a journey and not a destination, much of the work involved is about embedding capabilities that will position you well for the future.”
