Appian for Financial Services
Reconciliations (accounts and financials).

- Use stronger financial management and tracking to optimize financial strategies
- Accurately reflect business activities in the financial value stream
- Align currency transactions between bank documents and internal systems
- Reduce exceptions that need further processing and resolution

Financial institutions must track and manage the financial value stream associated with every business activity in order to maintain liquidity, enable forecasting, and optimize short- and long-term financial strategies. This includes properly reflecting changes in underlying accounts and reconciling these accounts and associated activities to verify balances and adjustment entries. Unfortunately, depending on factors like location or accounting principles, these accounts may exist in separate ledgers.

Meet the challenge.

Appian helps financial institutions reduce complexity and reconcile activities faster, bringing ease, efficiency, and accuracy to each financial close cycle.
